

Hope Resource Guide

For those who have recently discovered a spouse has committed adultery or family member is viewing pornography.

First, let me say how sorry I am for your grief and pain. I continue to walk my own journey as the spouse of a partner with a sex addiction so I know something of your loss. The resources below will not resolve your pain but they will provide hope and remind you that you are not alone. I empathize with the long and difficult journey ahead of you, but I promise, if you persevere and rely on the God of all comfort, you will find healing.

-Kim Pullen, Author, Wife, Mom, and Friend
